MRS, EPPA HUNTON DEAD.

Was a Valuable Helpmeet to Her Distinguished Husband.

WARRENTON, VA., September 4.-(Spe ciai.)-Mrs. Eppa Hunton died at her home here this morning at 7 o'clock. The end was not unexpected, as she had been ill for some time, and her health for years had been failing. Nevertheless, is the shock great in the community where she was so universally beloved. Mrs Hunton was Miss Lucy Weir, of Virginia, and married General Hunton some years before the war, when he was a young lawyer, just beginning the practice of his profession. In every way she was a helpmeet for him, for she was endowed with rare qualities of heart and mind. Their only child was the Hon. The funeral will take place from the Episcopal church here on Wednesday morning.

A STUDENT SHOT HIMSELF.

A young student named Stevens, at Bethel Academy, accidentally wounded himself very seriously Saturday evening. He let fall his gun, which struck the ground on end, barrels up, and discharged, letting off a full load into his arm and under the shoulder, breaking the bones and injuring the nerves and arteries frightfully. Dr. Hicks removed the shot some of which had gone into the shot, some of which had gone into his back, and dressed the wounds. He hopes to be able to save the arm.

DON'T FEAR DEFEAT.

INDEPENDENT CANDIDATES WILL CUT LITTLE FIGURE.

DEMOCRATS NOT AFRAID OF THEM.

They Do Not Think the Free Lances Will Be Able to Draw Any Strength from the Regular Party Organi-

That was the statement of a wellknown Democrat to a Dispatch writer last night. He has been keeping a careful watch of the nominations. He said he felt sure there was no reason to fear the defeat of one. He did not think there one has been announced.

DEMOCRACY IS SOLID.

"Of course," he said, "an Independent in a county in which the Democrats have a slight majority might stand a chance to slip in. But he has no such chance in the average county. I do not think a candidate opposed to the regular Democratic organization, whether he be Republican, Independent, or what not, will draw much strength from the Democ racy. He must look chiefly to the regu lar opposition for support."

Though there is no fear expressed as to the danger of anything like a general success of Independent candidates; or, indeed, of many being announced, it is realized that in addition to those who have already come out, there is proba-bility of more of them being put up. The fight of the Democratic organization will be against these independents.

The Queen's Simple At-Home Dress.

The Queen is simply attired in a black dress, not always of silk, and wears a widow's cap with small lappets at the back, her silver hair plainty brushed on either side her temples. Upon her fingers are plain memorial rings, and she myariably wears a bracelet having the portrait of her latest grandchild or great-standchild placed in it as a medallion. The Queen always has a handkerchief bordered with lace resting in her hands as they lie folded in her lap, the surviyal of an ancient fashion.
